NV Pol Roger White Foil
1 x 845 Barcode (2003/1999)
11 x 675 Barcode (disgorged 13 March 2003, 1999 harvest) Condition: Good. Damaged labels Pol Roger White Foil Brut NV. This collection of bottle aged Pol Roger is exceptional. Bottled in 2001 and 2003, the twenty years of bottle ageing gives this fine Champagne complexity, a gentle balance of fruit and acidity, making it far beyond a young wine. Pol Roger is made very traditionally with some use of old oak to pre-oxidate the must, the use of older reserve wines, as well as young wines from the House's fine vineyards mainly 1er cru. A true example of the beauty of the blend, and with extra age, superb.

1875 Chateau Lafite (2 bottles) - Ullage 2 x top shoulder, Whitwham UK bottling with their labels, recorked in 1977 The 1874 pair look to be in really top condition for a 150 year old wine. The 1875, whilst good levels of ullage are a bit paler, it was a very large vintage and these were UK bottled by the reputable Whitwhams Wines of Altringham. So well worth a try given the good levels.

1959 Chateau Latour (2 bottles) - Ullage 2 x Low shoulder, original label and cork
1959 Chateau Latour - half bottle (2 bottles) - 2 x Mid shoulder, original label and cork
An incredible lot of Chateau Latour, with all good condition, mid shoulder is better than many bottles from the 1950s. The 1950 vintage was very hot in the summer months, so had deep intense fruit when young, and alcohol slightly above the norm. With over 70 years age, this wine has become supremely gentle and elegant. Then the wines from the great classic 1959 vintage. One of the great Latours of all time. I last tasted it seven years ago, and it was still amazingly vibrant, not youthful, but certainly with more years to go. The halves probably very ready to enjoy now.

1957 Haut Brion (1 bottle) - Ullage 1 x High shoulder, original labels, recorked
The 1957 was a light vintage, but with this bottle in such good condition, it should be a delight, fully mature and complex, and gentle, yet persistent. The 1921 was a completely different vintage, with late warmth. It was one of the greatest vintages for the Sauternes and Barsacs, a few miles further south. But this warm vintage made a big wine with intensity and structure, and good lasting ability. It is fascinating to find six halves, which will make a real discovery of this vintage in one of the World's great vineyards, and eleven years before it was purchased by the Dillon family from the USA.

A wonderful Magnum of 1926. The Chateau claim it to be one of the great Margaux to drink now. Rather like the 1928, the '26 vintage was warm and late and initially turned out a tannic austere wine which took a long time to soften. This should be quite superb. Can it be kept without being drunk till it's 100th birthday?

Two Magnums from the long lived 1926 vintage, both with original corks. The badly ullaged Magnum, is a risk, but I wanted to include it as it has the remains of the original classic Rothschild label, and this robust, tannic vintage may well have been able to survive the oxygenation from a large ullage. The other Magnum looks excellent and better than most of this 98 year aged wine.

More of the exceptional 1961 vintage. Palmer started to become exceptional in the 1960's owned by two passionate wine owning, making and trading families, the Sichel and the Mahler-Besse. Indeed many people felt the Palmer 1966 outstripped many 1st Growths. 1947 Mouton Rothschild - Magnum

Ullage - 1 x bottom shoulder, 1 x mid shoulder
1 with Christie's tag and original tag, one missing original label
The 1947 was an extraordinarily ripe and opulent vintage. With the levels of fruit, tannin, acidity and alcohol enabling it to age slowly and remain very full bodied and even rich and succulent. My predecessor at Christies, Michael Broadbent, called Mouton the best wine of that vintage. I tasted it once at lunch at Mouton in the 1980's and it was still extraordinarily youthful. Christopher Burr MW.

Bottle number 4027 Ullage: Very bottom shoulder, 9cm
The 1953 wines from the Domaine and the Cotes de Nuits are exceptional, and structured and long lived. This is a very ullaged magnum, and to be honest I was nervous about putting it in the sale. However, Burgundy copes with ullage well, and it is the most structured wine from the region in a highly structured vintage. It has the original cork and label, and for such an iconic wine, I felt I had to give someone the opportunity to try it.
Such a rare bottle.

Condition Perfect, High fill
From an ancient ,3000 years plus, vineyard on the northern Adriatic island of Korcula, and from indigenous grape varieties Posip and Grk, this white sweet wine is a real discovery. Produced in tiny quantities as a botrised richly sweet wine, yet balanced with lovely acidity and very complex flavours, I put this into a blind tasting of experts against Chateau d'Yquem, and everyone agreed that it is at a similar level, some preferred it!  1949 Vin d'Anjou Coteaux du Layon Domaine de Maligne (1 bottle) - Ullage 1x5cm
 Here is an historic wine from the Coteaux du Layon, and from the legendary 1920s decade, particularly from 1921.
 Many are Prunier selections for the famous restaurant in St James's which closed in the late 1970s. Their amazing cellar was sold off by Christie's and its probable that wines must have been purchased by our consignor at that time.

 Ullage - 1x2cm, 1x2cm, 1x3cm, 1x3cm, 1x1cm
 The Vouvray from Mark Bredif from the incredible 1921 vintage is one of the highlights of this sale. A Moelleux or slightly sweet wine, typical of the wine made with the grape Chenin Blanc at that time and some now, although sadly the trend is to bone dry. This wine is extraordinary, with such freshness and vibrancy still, yet full of tropical fruit, and wild honey notes. I feel honoured to have so many bottles of this fabulous wine to offer.
